“ Mom endured a lot throughout her lifetime. I will always love her. She was the best mom a kid could ever hope to have as she always put us first.

“ There are so many things I can say about my mom. So many things that would take decades to tell. Her presence was unmistakable.

Mom was like no other. She always placed others before her even though she had been ill for a very long time. The pain she endured daily is something that most of us will never experience or will ever experience, but she remained worried of others.

This woman, my mom, had the best soul in this world or my lifetime. No matter whom you were, black, white, rich or poor, she loved everyone. She would give you anything you needed and would go out of her way to help you no matter her condition. If she didn't have it she would find a way.

As a mother, she loved my sister and I unconditionally. Throughout the years, we have regrets on what we could've done differently. We gave her hell as children and growing adults as most of us do, but she forgave us no matter the situation. She loved us both and that makes it more difficult to forgive ourselves. However, I know time will heal the wounds.

There are some of us that didn't know my mom to the fullest. Some who's presence wasn't often seen. However, she understands. Life takes us in different directions and I have learned one thing from this. Never take life for granted. If you haven't seen someone, visit them. Call them. Let them know you care.

I could continue writing for years about mother. She will be missed more than anyone knows from my sister, my dad, and I. Holidays won't be the same, nothing will be the same. However, we will strengthen our hearts and remember the good times that we had with mother. The happy times, the times when she was taking care of all of us as she used to do. The times when she comforted us in our time of need. The times when she told us what we needed to hear. Best of all, the time of her being a great mom to Jessica and I, and wife to my father, Robert Lemaster.

We love you Mom!!!

Your son,

John Lemaster

“ I will miss you so much Dorothy, the calls, laughs and the love. I could never list all the memories, one I will, pinto beans in the 50's, how often did we talk about that. I loved you since we were kids, I love you now and forever, will see you again and we can talk about every thing. My heart is breaking for your family, I know how mine is breaking, only God can get us through this. Missing you already.

“ I have incredibly fond memories of my aunt, Dot. Remember her constantly cleaning Granny's house from our visits as a young child. She was a neat freak forever, even later in life! My aunt was a caring person, too. She worried about others even when she was in so much pain. She checked on me regularly and I thoroughly enjoyed our conversations. She often talked about John and Jessica and their families and was so proud of them. Yes, we will all miss Dorothy. Heaven gained an Angel! Bill
