“ I remember when Nelda, Buddy and their sons lived on the lake in Warrenton. Nearly every time I passed by, Nelda was out walking. She walked before it became popular to walk. When I worked at TVA-Bellefonte and met my ride at the top of Georgia Mountain on Highway 69, I would see Buddy and Nelda heading for Redstone Arsenal every morning. They were in that little silver sports car they had. I called it the "silver streak" because they were out of sight as soon as I saw them coming over the crest. I could set my watch by them because they came by the same time every morning. In later years I would meet her on the Gunterville Walking Trail, in Walmart or the Pig. She never failed to give me one of those Nelda hugs and ask about my family. She was a second mother to my son, Ken. To this day, as I watch The Master, I always think of Buddy and Nelda. She was my friend for many, many years, and I will truly miss her. Prayers and condolences to her family and friends.
